This course is an introduction to the theory and scientific research in the psychological study of sex differences, which fundamentally requires an examination of gender more broadly (as gender is a key construct underlying psychological differences between women and men). Sex differences are complex and often vary by sexual orientation and gender identity, too, and some individuals are born intersex (neither female nor male) while others identify as neither a man nor a woman. Accordingly, this course examines the topics of sex and gender as they are relevant to all people, regardless of sex, gender identity, or sexual orientation. Research addressing both women and men, as well as diverse gender and sexual identities, will be examined in order to provide a complete introduction to this area of study. Similarly, cross-cultural and intersectional views will be considered throughout.

Specific course topics include psychological differences between men and women; social and biological factors in sex differences and gender; gender development; stereotypes and sexism; cognition and communication; sexuality and interpersonal relationships; work and family life; health and well-being; and aggression and violence. Students who successfully complete this course will be able to discuss research on sex differences and gender, compare theoretical perspectives on sex differences and gender, and consider the individual and social implications of these topics.

COURSE FORMAT

This course will be structured primarily around textbook readings and PowerPoint/lecture content, which is intended to summarize and expand upon textbook readings. PowerPoint/lecture content will be posted online and should be read in addition to the assigned textbook readings. Video files of lectures with instructor voice-over for each lecture will also be available. Both textbook readings and PowerPoint/lecture topics are indicated on the course schedule (see end of syllabus). This schedule should be your main resource for staying organized in this course. You will be expected to participate in online discussions and submit 3 debate critiques over the term (1 per unit). You will also be required to complete 10 quizzes and a final (cumulative) exam.

COURSE WEBSITE: This course uses Canvas (http://canvas.ubc.ca) to make important class announcements, facilitate online discussions, post PowerPoint/lecture/video files, administer quizzes and exams, publish grades, and supply other relevant materials to students. Please ensure that you are registered on Canvas and that you are set up to receive notifications as needed.

COURSE MODULES: Material will be presented in 10 modules (see course schedule at the end of this syllabus), with each module lasting one week. In Canvas, go to Modules to find everything you need for a given week.

REQUIRED READING – YOUR TEXTBOOK

by Jennifer K. Bosson, Camille E. Buckner, & Joseph A. Vandello

There are 2 formats to choose from, depending on your preference and needs...

Please see the course schedule at the end of the syllabus for chapter assignments for each week/module.

*Multiple electronic formats and purchasing/ordering options for the electronic edition of the book are available at the publisher’s website. Any of these options is acceptable. See the publisher’s website at the following link...

OLDER EDITIONS: Due to significant updates to this edition (including content that will appear on quizzes and the exam), no other edition should be used.

STUDY RESOURCES: The Student Study Site for the textbook includes learning objectives, flashcards, videos and multimedia resources, and more. It can be accessed here: https://edge.sagepub.com/bosson2e

COURSE EVALUATION  Students are expected to complete...

10 Module Quizzes (to be completed by deadlines indicated) — 10% of final grade (1% each)
See section on ‘Module Quizzes’ for additional details and requirements.

3 Debate Critiques (1 case study must be submitted per unit) — 30% of final grade (10% each)
See section on ‘Debate Critiques’ for additional details and requirements, including deadlines.

Online Discussion Participation (5 comments total; max. 2 per unit) — 10% of final grade (2% each)
See section on ‘Online Discussions’ for additional details and requirements.

1 Final Exam, Cumulative (to be scheduled by the university) — 50% of final grade
See section on ‘Final Examination’ for additional details and requirements on final exam.

10 Quizzes (10%) + 3 Case Studies (30%) + Discussions (10%) + Exam (50%) = Final Grade
+ up to 3 bonus points for participating in HSP research (optional; see section on ‘Extra Credit’)

MODULE QUIZZES

There will be one quiz for each of the 10 course modules, each worth 1% of your grade. Quizzes will consist of 10 multiple choice questions addressing key concepts and material from course readings AND lectures. They are intended to improve learning and help you prepare for the final examination. Quizzes are timed; you will have 8 minutes to complete each quiz (average of 48 seconds per question). Quizzes are “open book” and “open note” as you may refer to your notes and/or book (either paper or electronic format) during quizzes; however, you are strictly prohibited from recording or taking screenshots of quizzes and from sharing quiz content with other students (see section on Academic Integrity for more details). Quizzes will be available on Canvas (see Quizzes) and must be completed by the deadlines indicated (one week after the start date of that module). All times are in Pacific Standard Time (PST). If you do not complete a quiz by the deadline, you will receive a grade of ‘0’ on the quiz. In cases of emergencies, concessions may be offered if you contact me within 24 hours. If approved, your deadline may be extended or your grade re-weighted. Note that correct responses to quiz questions will ONLY be made available for 4 full days following the deadline of the respective quiz.

DEBATE CRITIQUES

You are required to submit 3 ‘debate critiques’ over the course of the term (1 debate critique must be submitted for each unit of the course according to the deadlines indicated in the course schedule). Debate critiques are not meant to be summaries of course material. Rather, they are intended to encourage critical thinking about specific topics, debates, and conversations in the study of sex and gender. You will notice that each chapter of your textbook includes an overview of a debate that is relevant to the respective chapter’s content. These debates appear in highlight boxes titled, “Debate” (there is one per chapter). Following an overview of the debate, both sides are then briefly discussed. For each unit of the course, you must choose any one debate from a chapter that is assigned in the respective unit. So, for Unit 1, you may choose a debate from Chapters 1 through 4; for Unit 2, from Chapters 5 through 9; and for Unit 3, from Chapters 10 through 14. (Note that additional debate options may be provided online.) Then you must ‘pick a side’ of the debate and support your position in a brief write-up/critique. Each debate critique must be no more than one page in length (double-spaced), not including a References page if applicable (see Debate Critique Requirements).
Debate critiques must involve more than simply stating your opinion. Rather, the goal should be to demonstrate critical thinking and reasoning about the particular debate in order to support the side you have chosen. Support can be provided based on intellectual reasoning and logic, expert consensus (in any field), or scientific evidence (either new or cited in the textbook or lectures). While research findings can be helpful, support can also be provided in the form of logical reasoning alone. (It all depends on your approach, and it is not necessary that you bring in outside sources at all.) Ideas and literature from neighbouring disciplines are very much welcome. If referring to ideas or research findings presented in lecture or in the textbook, you may simply treat this information as general knowledge and no formal citations are needed (and therefore no References page is needed in this case).

When referring to any other literature or outside sources in your critique, then you must cite the information according to APA style AND also include an additional References page including the full reference(s) for this new information. A References page is therefore NOT required in all cases. It depends on the approach you take. Remember, many debates can be approached using logic and reason alone, so outside sources are not always necessary. Whatever your approach, you must argue and/or support your stance!

In matters of intellectual discourse and debate, I tend to adopt the perspective that you are not simply “entitled to your opinion.” Instead, you are “entitled to what you can argue for.” This means that when approaching a debate or controversy through an academic or scientific lens, it is important to be able to defend your opinion or stance. Otherwise, the discourse becomes meaningless in the first place, and people’s opinions become so personal that even continuing to engage in discourse is interpreted as being offensive. Simply put, you need to support your perspective. I recommend reading the following article (by a university professor) for some perspective on this: https://theconversation.com/no-yours-not-entitled-to-your-opinion-9978.

DEBATE CRITIQUE REQUIREMENTS: Each debate critique must be typed, double-spaced (with 1-inch margins), in 12-point Times New Roman or similar font, and NO MORE THAN ONE PAGE IN LENGTH (any additional content will be ignored!). First-person perspective should be used minimally, formal/academic tone should be used (i.e., tone should NOT be conversational), and direct quoting should be avoided in papers of this length. You should include a heading at the top of the page indicating which chapter’s debate you are discussing, as well as your name student ID (see Sample Debate Critique). You must state the side of the debate you support in the first sentence using the exact wording from the relevant chapter (see sample Debate Critique). A References page can be included in addition to the one page if it is required (i.e., if you cite information not cited in the textbook or lecture). You should adhere to APA formatting (7th ed., APA, 2019); however, debate critiques do NOT require a title page, an abstract, a running head, or headings.

DEBATE CRITIQUE SUBMISSION: Debate critiques must be submitted for each unit no later than 11:59 PM on the deadlines indicated (see the course schedule at the end of this syllabus). Electronic copies must be uploaded through Canvas (see Assignments) in PDF file format. Only ONE debate critique can be submitted per unit. If you do not submit a critique by the unit’s deadline, you will receive a grade of ‘0’ for that unit. In cases of medical emergencies and other circumstances, concessions may be offered (see UBC’s policy on in-term concessions), but you must contact me within 24 hours of the deadline. If your concession is approved, a late submission may be accepted or your grade redistributed.

DEBATE CRITIQUE GRADING: Debate critiques will be graded primarily on critical thinking, insightfulness, and reasoning (including your ability to support/justify your stance). Although grammar and spelling are not crucial concerns, they should be at a level such that they do not compromise the clarity of your thoughts. Each debate critique will be assigned a point grade out of 10, reflecting the percentage contribution of each critique to your final grade. Debate critiques will account for a total of 30% of your final grade in the course (i.e., 10% each). Grades for debate critiques as well as grader comments and feedback will be posted on Canvas. Please allow 2 weeks for grades to be posted following the submission deadline.
ONLINE DISCUSSIONS

Throughout the course, numerous discussions will be started on Canvas (see Discussions). These discussions may involve course content, new theories or research related to course content, or other related media. You are expected to participate occasionally in these discussions by making 5 original and meaningful comments over the course of the term, with a maximum of 2 comments per unit. Original comments on discussions and/or responses to other students’ comments are equally acceptable and eligible for points, but in order to be graded, each eligible comment must be made on a different discussion (i.e., you cannot receive points for 2 comments on the same discussion). Although you are welcome to comment on discussions beyond than the minimum requirement, only your first 2 comments will count towards your grade in any given unit and again, they must be made on different discussions. For a comment to receive the full 2 points, it must reflect a high degree of critical thinking about the topic and contribute positively/meaningfully to the discussion. If a comment is deemed to be of less value or insight, or if it is lacking in originality, it will receive a reduced score of 1 out of 2. If a comment is deemed to be of little value at all, it will receive a score of 0 out of 2. Three or more new discussions will be posted on Canvas at the beginning of each module. In order to be eligible and count towards your grade, comments must be made no later than one week after the discussion is started on Canvas. Discussions will be closed after one week. Extra points will NOT be assigned for additional comments made above and beyond the maximum of 2 per unit or 5 per term. You should participate in discussions according to what you find interesting or intellectually stimulating. Please do not wait until the very end of each unit to participate! Concessions may be offered in outstanding circumstances (e.g., illness).

FINAL EXAMINATION

There is one final exam in this course (2 hours in length), to be scheduled during the university exam period. (It is up to you to ensure that you are available during that period; final exam dates are announced mid-term.) The final exam must be completed and submitted electronically on Canvas (see Quizzes on Canvas). The final exam is cumulative (excluding Lecture 1 and Chapter 1) and will consist of 100 multiple choice questions. These questions will be presented one at a time; however, you will be able to move back and forth between questions and review/revise previous responses as you wish within the allotted time. All course units will be evenly represented on the exam, with an approximately equal number of questions from each, and questions will address both lecture and textbook content. Questions will be presented in random order and drawn randomly from a larger bank of questions in order to prevent collaboration among students and maintain academic integrity. The exam is “open book” and “open note” as you may refer to your notes and/or book (any format) during the exam; however, you are strictly prohibited from recording questions (in any way) and from sharing exam content with other students (see section on Academic Integrity for more details).

ON EXAM DAY: All students must have uninterrupted access to a computer in order to complete the exam. At any time during the 24-hour period of the scheduled exam date, you must log in to Canvas, click on the Quizzes tab in the course homepage, and then click on ‘Final Exam.’ Once you start, you will have a limited amount of time to complete the exam (to be announced). Exam availability is scheduled according to Pacific Standard Time (PST, i.e., Vancouver time). Students in other time zones should make the appropriate adjustments in order to ensure that the exam is completed by 11:59 PM (PST). If you experience technical issues during the exam, please email me immediately with as much information as possible.

MISSING THE EXAM: The final exam will be available to complete on the published date only. Exceptions will be made in cases of medical or health-related issues, certain conflicting responsibilities, and other emergency situations. For policies regarding in-term academic concessions, including a list of eligible circumstances, please refer to the relevant UBC calendar entry: http://www.calendar.ubc.ca/vancouver/index.cfm?tree=3.329.0.0. For health-related issues, no medical documentation is required for the first occurrence; however, if you experience ongoing challenges during the term, you should seek support from your Academic Advising Office.
If you are unable to write the exam due to unforeseen events (illness or otherwise), you must contact me before the exam or within 24 hours following the exam or risk being assigned a grade of ‘0’ on the exam.

OTHER ACCOMMODATIONS: Accommodations will also be made for students with religious obligations that conflict with the exam. Depending on the circumstances (as determined on a case-by-case basis), students may be offered a make-up exam scheduled at another time. The final exam in this course cannot be waived.

EXAM GRADES: Exam grades will be made available on Canvas as soon as possible (typically within 48 hours of the scheduled exam date). The final exam will account for 50% of your final grade in the course. Additional feedback regarding exam performance can be provided upon request.

DEPARTMENTAL POLICY ON GRADE DISTRIBUTION

In order to reduce grade inflation and maintain equity across multiple course sections, all psychology classes are required to comply with departmental norms regarding grade distributions. However, in the spirit of flexibility and compassion in light of COVID-19 and the associated return to in-person teaching, those departmental norms have been adjusted upwards by 5% for 2021W. According to these adjusted norms, the average grade in 300-level psychology classes will be 75 for an exceptionally strong class, 73 for an average class, and 71 for a weak class, with a standard deviation of 13. Scaling may be used in order to comply with these norms; grades may be scaled up or down as necessary by an instructor or the department. Grades are not official until they appear on a student’s academic record. You will receive both a percent and a letter grade for this course.

ACADEMIC INTEGRITY, CHEATING, & ACADEMIC MISCONDUCT

Cheating, plagiarism, and other forms of academic misconduct are very serious concerns of the University, and the Department of Psychology has taken steps to alleviate them, including the use of software and online platforms (such as TurnItIn) to detect cheating and plagiarism. In cases of suspected academic misconduct, the parties involved will be pursued to the fullest extent dictated by the guidelines of the University. If you have any questions as to whether or not what you are doing is a case of academic misconduct, please consult UBC’s policies on Academic Honesty and Standards / Misconduct here: http://www.calendar.ubc.ca/vancouver (see Campus-Wide Policies and Regulations). What does academic integrity involve in this class? Here are some tips:

Do your own work!

All graded work in this course is to be original work done independently by you! It is unacceptable to: buy/sell/share exam questions or answers on any platform; misrepresent your identity; use someone else to complete an assignment or exam; help someone else cheat; complete someone else’s work.

Avoid unintentional plagiarism.

The ideas of others should always be acknowledged! Visit this guide to preventing plagiarism in your writing: http://learningcommons.ubc.ca/resource-guides/avoiding-plagiarism/

DO NOT share course materials.

All course materials, including PowerPoint files, lecture recordings, uploaded videos, exam questions, discussions, and announcements are the copyrighted intellectual property of David King. It is unacceptable to share any of these materials outside of this course (e.g., CourseHero).
PARTICIPATION & ATTENDANCE

I strongly encourage and appreciate student participation. Participation may be in the form of questions or comments posed during online discussions or during one-on-one discussions with me. If you would prefer to share your thoughts/ideas with me outside of group discussions, you are welcome to do so during my virtual office hours or by appointment. In order to encourage and facilitate participation, I ask that all students support their classmates’ efforts to contribute to class discussion. General course policies can be obtained from the UBC Calendar on academic regulations.

RESPECT & DECENCY

I will only ever tolerate an inclusive, respectful, and safe learning environment (which includes all online discussions and interactions). The opinions and perspectives of all individuals are valued and respected, no matter their age, sex, ability, ethnicity, culture, religion, sexual orientation, or gender identity. To this end, and in support of UBC’s Positive Space campaign, I further aim to foster a learning atmosphere that is receptive to and welcoming of LGBTQ+ people and issues (see http://positivespace.ubc.ca). All individuals in the classroom should feel safe to express their thoughts and opinions without judgment, ridicule, or discrimination. As such, thoughts and opinions should only ever be shared in a respectful and polite manner. Yes, Intellectual discourse and debate CAN occur politely and respectfully! In regards to more sensitive issues, it is advisable that you “think before you speak.” If a statement or behaviour might offend someone or make an individual feel alienated or threatened, it should be reworded or not shared at all. Educated and respectful opinions, on the other hand, are always welcome. Students should familiarize themselves with UBC’s policy on maintaining a Respectful Environment on campus and in the classroom: http://www.hr.ubc.ca/respectful-environment

STILL UNSURE OF WHAT IT MEANS TO BE RESPECTFUL? Here are some basic tips on how to communicate respectfully: https://www.wikihow.com/Be-Respectful#Communicating_Respectfully_sub. And remember, treat your Instructor and TA(s) with the same respect! That includes being patient for e-mail replies.

SUPPORTING STUDENT SUCCESS

UBC provides resources to support student learning and to maintain healthy lifestyles but recognizes that sometimes crises arise and so there are additional resources to access, including those for survivors of sexual violence. UBC values respect for the person and ideas of all members of the academic community. Harassment and discrimination are not tolerated nor is suppression of academic freedom. UBC provides appropriate accommodation for students with disabilities and for religious and cultural observances. UBC values academic honesty and students are expected to acknowledge the ideas generated by others and to uphold the highest academic standards in all of their actions. Details of the policies and how to access support are available here: https://senate.ubc.ca/policiesresources-support-student-success. Further details follow...

ACADEMIC ACCOMMODATION

The University accommodates students with disabilities who have registered with the Centre for Accessibility (http://students.ubc.ca/about/access). Please let me know in advance, preferably within the first 2 weeks of class, if you require any accommodation on these grounds.
ACADEMIC CONCESSION
During your time in this course, if you encounter medical, emotional, or personal problems that affect your attendance or performance, please notify me. You may be able to obtain academic concession from the Dean of your Faculty. For further information on academic concession, please consult Policies and Regulations in the UBC Calendar (http://www.calendar.ubc.ca/vancouver/index.cfm).

LEARNING RESOURCES
Learning Commons (http://learningcommons.ubc.ca) is an online resource designed to provide UBC students with learning and study support. It is an interactive website that provides access to information on exam preparation, tutoring, on-campus learning workshops, study groups, and technical tools. The University of Northern British Columbia (UNBC) also has a number of useful learning resources available for students online. They can be found at: http://www.unbc.ca/lsc/index.html.

HEALTH & WELLNESS RESOURCES
There are a number of health and wellness resources available to you should you find yourself in need of additional support. Student health services can be found here: https://students.ubc.ca/health/student-health-service; and counselling services can be found here: https://students.ubc.ca/health/counselling-services. The Wellness Centre at UBC also allows you to connect with other UBC students on matters of mental health and wellness: students.ubc.ca/health/wellness-centre.

If you find yourself in distress or are worried about someone in distress who may hurt themselves, you should call 1-800-SUICIDE 24 hours a day to connect to a BC crisis line, without a wait.

Additional information on health and wellness resources can be found on the main page of the course website.

ONLINE LEARNING FOR INTERNATIONAL STUDENTS
This course is able to accommodate students living in different time zones, as all course content is recorded and accessible at any time. Attendance will not be taken in any online discussion.

Please keep in mind that some UBC courses might cover topics that are censored or considered illegal by non-Canadian governments. This may include, but is not limited to, human rights, representative government, defamation, obscenity, gender or sexuality, and historical or current geopolitical controversies. If you are a student living abroad, you will be subject to the laws of your local jurisdiction, and your local authorities might limit your access to course material or take punitive action against you. UBC is strongly committed to academic freedom, but has no control over foreign authorities (please visit http://www.calendar.ubc.ca/vancouver/index.cfm?tree=3,33,86,0 for an articulation of the values of the University conveyed in the Senate Statement on Academic Freedom). Thus, we recognize that students will have legitimate reason to exercise caution in studying certain subjects. If you have concerns regarding your personal situation, consider postponing taking a course with manifest risks, until you are back on campus or reach out to your academic advisor to find substitute courses. For further information and support, please visit: http://academic.ubc.ca/support-resources/freedom-expression.

*Content from Ch. 1 and Lecture 1 will only appear on the Module 1 Quiz (i.e., NOT on the final exam).
Here are some additional points to help you navigate the course and manage your time...

Please ensure that you have read the course schedule in detail! The course is organized into 3 units:

Unit 1 includes 4 lectures/modules (Modules 1—4) and 4 chapters of the textbook (Chs. 1—4).

Unit 2 includes 3 lectures/modules (Modules 5—7) and 5 chapters of the textbook (Chs. 5—9).

Unit 3 includes 3 lectures/modules (Modules 8—10) and 5 chapters of the textbook (Chs. 10—14).

IMPORTANT: DO NOT CONFUSE COURSE UNITS WITH TEXTBOOK UNITS!

Note that you will NOT be tested on Chapter 15 of the textbook.

One week is dedicated to each learning module. Beginning on a Monday, each module will include 1 lecture file (PDF) as well as a video file of the lecture with instructor voice-over (found in Media Gallery), plus assigned chapters from the textbook that must be read that week. Each module ends with a quiz which becomes available on Friday and closes on the following Monday.

New Discussions will be posted at the start of each module. You are expected to make 5 original/meaningful comments (or responses to other comments) over the term (maximum 2 per unit, only first 2 eligible for points). All discussion comments are also due one week after being posted.

IMPORTANT: You should notice that module quizzes and discussion comments are both due on the same date for any single module – one week after module start date (Monday) at 11:59 PM (PST).

A debate critique is also due at the end of each of the 3 units (see deadlines in course schedule). At the end of Units 1 and 2, you will see that there is an extra week before each of your first 2 debate critiques is due and before the start of the next unit. You should use this extra time to complete your debate critiques and/or get ahead in your readings. Your final debate critique is due on the last day of classes.

IMPORTANT: Due to a brief midterm break that has been scheduled from Nov. 10th to Nov. 12th, 2021, your deadlines for Module 8 (which starts on Nov. 8) will be extended by 2 days such that they will fall on Wednesday rather than Monday of the following week. All other deadlines will remain unaffected.

ON CANVAS: In addition to the Modules tab, which will help you stay organized, as well as the Media Gallery tab (where you will find video files of lectures with voice-over), the Course Summary located at the bottom of the Home page will help you keep track of deadlines.

Also be sure to refer to the Study Guide/Tips on Canvas for more tips on how to study the textbook and lectures and better prepare for the final exam!
