Course description: This course is designed to introduce students to topics and issues concerning the History of Modern Psychology, and how those items relate to the present day. The course emphasises thinking, discussing, and writing about these topics and issues in a critical and coherent manner.

Course goals and learning outcomes: Upon completion of this course, you will have been exposed to the research methods and ideas in the history of psychology from the 19th century through to the 21st century. You should also gain a sense of your own historical roots within psychology, learning that modern ideas develop from a chain of ideas that flow from the past through to the present.

Course materials: You are responsible for obtaining the course materials. They are of two main sources: (1) A textbook - A Brief History of Modern Psychology (3rd Edition) by Ludy T. Benhamin Jr. I suggest you acquire this book as an E-Book rental through the UBC bookstore (op.bookstore.ubc.ca/courselistbuilder.aspx). Be sure to apply the 20% discount that they are offering! (2) Podcasts from the "This Week in the History of Psychology" (TWITHOP) (by Christopher Green). These podcasts are freely available online, e.g., Apple Podcasts; they can also be accessed on his website: http://www.yorku.ca/christo/podcasts/.

Evaluation: Evaluations will be based on weekly quizzes, an exam, and a diary of your thoughts and ideas regarding the course material and discussions.

Late Work: Will result in a grade of 0 for that component of the class.

Attendance Policy: You are expected to attend all classes.

Course policies: Course materials and items discussed in class will be on the exam. Answers to quizzes, the exam, and your diary will be submitted through Turnitin, at least as long as this class is being offered online. To enrol in the class for Turnitin, please use the information below.

1. Weekly Quizzes (30%)

At the start of every class (except for first class and on the exam day) you will receive a quiz lasting approximately 10 minutes. The quiz will concern the materials assigned for that class (e.g., lecture, reading, and podcast/s). Each quiz is worth 3% of your final grade. Missed quizzes will be assigned a 0. However, if we're back in person and you do not come to class for a covid-related reason (e.g., you are feeling unwell and/or you need to be isolating) then there will be the opportunity to make up the quiz in the last class at the end of term.

2. Exam (50%)

The in class exam (Week 10: March 22) will consist of short answer questions and one essay question. It will cover lectures, assigned course materials (e.g., readings and podcasts), and items discussed in class up to the end of Week 9. There will be no make-up exam in this course. This means that if you miss an exam you will receive a 0. The only exception to this is a valid concession. If you miss the exam and are an Arts student, review the Faculty of Arts’ academic concession page and then complete Arts Academic Advising’s online academic concession form, so that an advisor can evaluate your concession case. If you are a student in a different Faculty, please consult your Faculty’s webpage on academic concession, and then contact me where appropriate.

3. Diary of your ideas and thoughts (20%)

Due on Wednesday, April 6, 2022, 11.59 pm PST. Present your thoughts and ideas relating to the lectures, assigned materials, and discussions in the course.

University Policies

UBC provides resources to support student learning and to maintain healthy lifestyles but recognizes that sometimes crises arise and so there are additional resources to access including those for survivors of sexual violence. UBC values respect for the person and ideas of all members of the academic community. Harassment and discrimination are not tolerated nor is suppression of academic freedom. UBC provides appropriate accommodation for students with disabilities and for religious observances. UBC values academic honesty and students are expected to acknowledge the ideas generated by others and to uphold the highest academic standards in all of their actions.

Details of the policies and how to access support are available on the UBC Senate website https://senate.ubc.ca/policies-resources-support-student-success.

Cheating, plagiarism, and other forms of academic misconduct are very serious concerns of the University. In all cases of suspected academic misconduct, the parties involved will be pursued to the fullest extent dictated by the guidelines of the University. Strong evidence of cheating or plagiarism may result in a zero credit for the work in question. According to the University Act (section 61), the President of UBC has the right to impose harsher penalties including (but not limited to) a failing grade for the course, suspension from the University, cancellation of scholarships, or a notation added to a student’s transcript.

All graded work in this course, unless otherwise specified, is to be original work done independently by individuals. If you have any questions as to whether or not what you are doing is even a borderline case of academic misconduct, please consult your instructor. For details on pertinent University policies and procedures, please see https://learningcommons.ubc.ca.

Further information about academic regulations, course withdrawal dates and credits can be found in the University Calendar. You are encouraged to read this material. If you run into trouble and need information about studying, preparing for exams, note taking or time management, free workshops and advice are available from the Student Resources Centre, which can be reached through the School and College Liaison Office at 822-4319.
